DO YOU KNOW THAT...

Journal Review Policy Revised

Beginning with this issue of the SIECUS Report, reviews of articles in individual issues of human sexuality journals, once a regular feature, are being eliminated. In their stead, an overview and annotated listing of all of the currently available journals in the field of human sexuality will be published once each year. In addition, from time to time special-topic issues of the various professional journals will be reviewed when they concentrate on sexuality concerns. Readers are requested to inform the editors of any such prospective issues.

Resources to Write for . . .

Legal Aspects of Transsexualism 1979 by Joanne M. Clark is a 36-page source booklet containing up-to-date information on legal matters concerning transsexuals. Topics include the armed services, civil rights, criminal and family law, health care, identification, veterans' benefits, and vocational rehabilitation. Copies are available for $5 each through Renaissance, P.O. Box 2476, Mission Viejo, CA 92690.

The Sexual Spectrum, a strikingly effective 29- by 21-inch poster designed by Deryck Calderwood and Mark Schoen, has a twofold function—for use as an art piece and also as an educational resource to provoke discussion. On a background of sky blue in a rainbow of five colors from the spectrum are the words "Human Sexuality," "Heterosexuality," "Bisexuality," "Homosexuality," and "Human Sexuality." Dramatic in its simplicity of design, this poster is accompanied by a sheet of suggestions for use with groups concerned with understanding the total range of human sexual expression. It costs $5 (prepayment, includes postage and handling) and is available from David Steven Enterprises, P.O. Box 199, Bayside, NY 11361.
